

Randy Mamola wearing a Nava 2

Six out of the top twelve riders in the 1980 500cc World Championships chose standard Nava 2 helmets.

Most helmet manufacturers make a special helmet for racing. They may look the same as the helmets you buy off the shelf but they're individually constructed for extra protection.

Nava don't think the ordinary rider should have to settle for second best. So the helmets worn by Mamola, Luchinelli and Katayama on circuits around the world are of exactly the same construction as the one you can buy at your local Nava dealer.

The Nava 2 is the result of extensive research and a computer-controlled production process that makes it one of the most aerodynamic helmets currently available. And the protection it offers is so good that over two thousand professional riders chose the standard Nava 2 for use in competitions last year.

Serious about safety.
