

The helmet designed not to be a drag.

The aerodynamic shape of the NAVA2 does much more than just look good.

Compared with a conventional helmet, wind resistance has been dramatically cut, which on a long run means considerably reduced neck-strain.

And it almost completely eliminates wind-noise, lifting and buffeting at speed.

To keep out the wind and rain, the unique self-closing visor drops into position at 30 mph and closes to fit flush at 50 mph.

Which all adds up to a helmet as comfortable as it is safe.

Like all our helmets, the NAVA 2 is produced by the most technologically advanced methods. Computer monitoring at every stage ensures that each helmet we make is perfect.

R.R.P. £19.40 (with every NAVA integral helmet bought between 1st and 31st May, 1982).

Yet for all the reassurance and safety that the NAVA name guarantees, you pay a relatively modest £40. (R.R.P.) No wonder the NAVA 2 is the best selling helmet in the world today.

Serious about safety.
