

What's nearly as good as trail riding your DR250 all day?

Riding it home afterwards.

What do most riders have to do after a hard day spent negotiating the toughest trails imaginable? The steepest hills climbable? The nastiest bogs?

They have to load their single purpose bikes back on the trailer and drive home.

Not a Suzuki DR250 rider.

He simply comes out of the bush onto a tar road, looks right, then left, then right again, and rides home on the same bike he's been riding all day.

Suzuki's DR250 is like that. Street legal and trail wise.
